Built with Purpose

Cement Creek Vet is a small-animal practice built from scratch by Dr. Kara Erickson and Shawna Castillo, business partners and besties with over 35 combined years of experience in veterinary medicine. We each spent the last few decades working in the industry and taking notes – on what worked, what didn't, and what a really good vet visit could actually feel like for both you and your pet.

Our mission is to leave every patient, client, and interaction better than we found it – through honest medicine, empathy, and real conversations.

Everything is intentional.

Context, not just conclusions. When we recommend something, we tell you why – how it works, what the evidence says, what happens if you skip it. You'll never leave with an estimate you don't understand or a diagnosis without knowing what it means for your animal. Our collaborative approach to treatment plans means you won't feel bad for asking questions or cornered by the cost. We work with CareCredit, Klarna, Cherry payment plans, and even created our application-based Angel Fund, Heart Dog & Cat Fund, so that you always have options. [Learn more about ways to pay]

A team hired for culture first. We all love what we do and actually want to come to work. Running into you on the trails or around town is a bonus - there's a good chance we'll recognize your pet before you, but that's kind of the whole point. [CTA: Meet our Team]

Personalized pet care. Every patient is treated as an individual – their own history, their own needs, their own plan.

Gentle handling as a standard, not a specialty. We prioritize a low-stress experience for all, and adapt our handling techniques based on your pet's disposition, lifestyle, and personality.

A quiet and cozy space, built just for cats. A separate room where cats can relax and recover with calming music and their own condo.

Happy visits because we care about your experience. Schedule time to share the space for a bit. Meet the team, get some treats, let your pet sniff around and decide we're okay. Our goal is to create positive associations and lasting relationships. [\[Learn More\]](#) to services pages;

A separate entrance for hard days. Because saying goodbye sucks, and your pet deserves a peaceful passing.

Modern tools and technology support. Rural living doesn't have to mean less access to quality veterinary care. We stay current on the latest advancements in veterinary medicine. For our team, that means ongoing education and modern equipment; for you, it means quicker answers, better diagnostics, and more accessible treatments. We carefully built every corner of Cement Creek Vet with that in mind: in-house labwork, advanced diagnostic imaging, dedicated dental and surgical suites, and our personal favorite – a glass observation room affectionately called the 'fishbowl,' so your pet is never out of our sight during their time here.
